

CARDIOVASCULAR REHAB PROGRAM

The heart is an important organ as its main function is to keep blood that's full of oxygen circulating throughout the body along with delivering nutrients to the cells and removing waste products. Because the heart is crucial to survival, it's important to keep it healthy with a well-balanced lifestyle and avoid things that can damage it. If, however, for some reason like a heart attack or cardiac failure, it does get damaged, it has to undergo procedures like stenting or a bypass to get better and requires definite aftercare, which is called cardiovascular rehabilitation. This program is designed to help you improve your health and help you recover from a heart attack and other forms of heart disease.
